OX COUNTY MARINE WITH ATLANTIC FLEET

Washington, D. C.—Starting on a period of sea duty with the prospect of visiting strange ports in distant lands, James Henry Campbell, of Gray, Knox County, Kentucky, is a member of the U. S. Marine guard on the U. S. S. North Dakota, one of the largest battleships of the Atlantic Fleet. The official records at Marine Corps headquarters here show that he was recently assigned to duty on that vessel.

James, who is a son of Mrs. Mamie Campbell, of Gray, joined the Marines at Cincinnati, O., last June, and in recent months he has been stationed at Parris Island, S. C. Later he took a course at the Sea-Going School, Norfolk, Va., where selected Marines are especially trained for sea duty. At this school he learned the duties, deportment and general routine required of Marines on battleships. His transfer to the dreadnaught followed.

The North Dakota was recently reported at the Southern Drill Grounds, a few miles away from the Virginia Capes, but it is expected the vessel will soon leave for the West Indies, where it is customary for most of the Atlantic Fleet to go each winter for target practice. Upon his return to Knox County young Campbell will doubtless have many interesting experiences to recount of his life at sea.

STARTLING RAILROAD FIGURES

In an article from the Railway Age we give some startling figures in regard to railroad rolling stock. Read it and then use your influence to bring about conditions which, in turn, will mean greater prosperity. Red tape and politics are a bane to big business. No one objects to the protection of the public but railroads should not be shackled by unnecessary expense for useless clerical work or by the interference of governmental officials whose lack of railroad knowledge would make a large library. Let the railroads grow. They are the biggest asset we have.

ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED

Armistice Day was observed by members of the American Legion by a parade, an army stum feed and by attendance at the Christian Church where Judge Sullivan, of Williamsburg, delivered an address on rehabilitation, Americanization and compensation, the program of the Legion for the coming year. The boys looked fine in their army and navy dress, carrying the flag of their country, which has never been dipped to a foreign foe.

MIDDLESBORO HOTEL OPENS

The Cumberland Hotel at Middlesboro was opened Thursday of last week with about seven hundred guests present. The speech of the evening was made by Dr. J. A. Gray formerly well-known Chautauqua speaker and now pastor of the Middlesboro Presbyterian Church.

CONGRESSMAN ROBSON Fresh Honors To 11th District

Not even the most optimistic Republican will claim that the party has much cause for jubilation over the result of the election. The gentle voters displayed a disposition to hammer the elephant into the jungles of minority and, while they did not succeed entirely, they have left him somewhat dazed and shaken. He is a tough old critter, however, and really has millions of friends who would prefer to feed him popcorn rather than beat him around. They have made a goat of the elephant for the sins of others, as well as for his own sins, which, while not quite fair, is awfully human, on the same principle that some people will kick at an unoffending object when they cannot reach the thing they wish to kick.

However, it's an ill wind that blows now, and out of his corner the elephant has lifted his some what sore trunk and has presented to Congressman J. M. Robson the chairmanship of at least two important committees: Roads and Post-offices, and also of Pensions, this being the first time the 11th District has ever enjoyed this distinction. We offer our congratulations to both Mr. Robson and his district. There has been much bosh and buncombe repeated about him, but the fact remains that he has worked hard for us in this district and none could have done more, while few could have done na well. He has brains, character and decency as assets and he works for his constituents.

Let us remember this to his credit. One good turn deserves another and he has done many for us. While he doubtless has his faults, J. M. Robson is not two-faced, nor will he stab one in the back. What he says is for the whole world to hear.

In other words, the 11th District has a real man for Congressman.

TUESDAY CLUB

The Tuesday Club was entertained November 7th by Mrs. B. P. Jones. The members were delighted to hear words of greeting from out of town members, Mrs. W. C. Black and Mrs. Sawyer A. Smith.

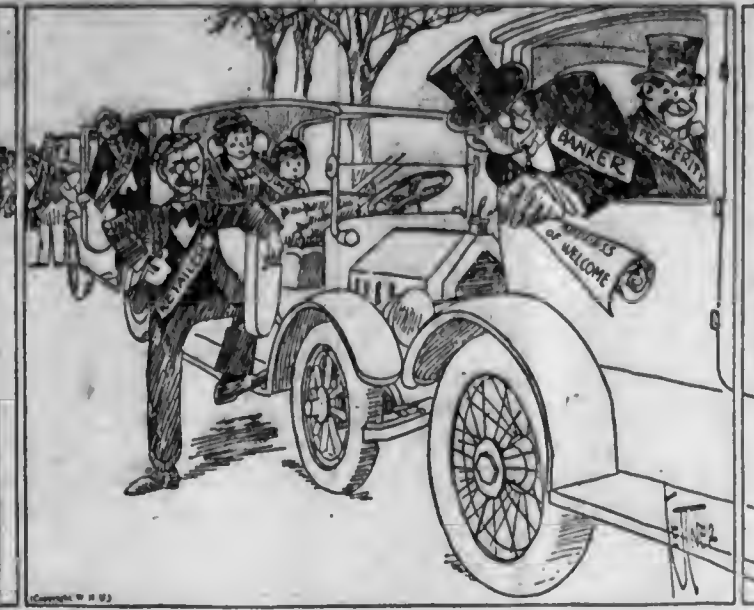

A very interesting discussion on Books and Modern Literature was presented by Mrs. J. R. Tuggle, assisted by Mrs. J. G. Tye and Miss Gertrude Black. Refreshing refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed by all—thanks to the hostess. The next meeting, November 21st, will be at the home of Mrs. R. B. Minton, Mrs. John Owen Grossa leader.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH Sunday, November 19th, 1922

The pastor will preach at both morning and evening services. "If God Is Good, Why Does He Allow Suffering and Sorrow?" will be the subject at 7:15 p.m.

Now, What's the Delay?

MRS. J. M. TINSLEY MEETS DEATH IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Ada Tinsley was instantly killed in an automobile accident on Sunday afternoon, while en-route to Four Mile, accompanied by Representative J. M. Tinsley, who was driving the car, and Mrs. William Tomlinson and Judge W. W. Tinsley, who occupied the rear seat of the car. Others of the outing party were Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Herndon, Mrs. W. W. Tinsley and Mr. William Tomlinson. They were all going to the farm near Four Mile where Representative and Judge Tinsley and their sister, Mrs. A. N. Herndon, lived in their earlier years. The first auto passed the railroad crossing in safety. On the arrival of the car driven by Representative Tinsley, a man motioned for the party to stop, but Mr. Tinsley, being unused to railroad signals, read into the motions a clear track ahead. On reaching the track, however, a freight train was already bearing down on them, some sixty to seventy feet away. Evidently the engine of the auto went dead at this juncture and while Judge W. W. Tinsley and Mrs. Tomlinson jumped clear from the back seat, Mrs. J. M. Tinsley had apparently got no further than the running board, while Mr. Tinsley still remained at the wheel when the railroad engine struck the front of the car hurling it some fifty feet. The automobile apparently struck Mrs. Tinsley with terrific force while her husband was thrown out of the car. The force of the impact with the automobile caused concussion of the brain and a broken arm in the case of Mrs. Tinsley, death being practically instantaneous, whereas Mr. Tinsley escaped with severe bruises about the body and cuts on the face, no ribs being broken as at first thought.

The caboose of the freight train was uncoupled and within ten minutes the body of Mrs. Tinsley was being brought to town, accompanied by the rest of the party. Mr. Tinsley was taken to the Logan Hospital for medical attention.

In his scramble to escape the oncoming train Judge W. W. Tinsley received slight scalp abrasions. Mrs. Tomlinson escaped without injury apart from the nervous shock.

Representative Tinsley was able to leave the hospital Monday for his home but was forbidden by his physicians to attend the funeral.

The car containing Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Herndon, Mrs. W. W. Tinsley, and Mr. Wm. Tomlinson, on reaching the farm waited for some time for the ill fated car to appear and finally, leaving Mr. Herndon at the farm, they started back to investigate, only to learn the sad fate which had overtaken Mrs. Tinsley. They thereupon drove back for Mr. Herndon and returned to the city with all speed.

The testimony of the trainmen is that Mrs. Tinsley was on the running board and her husband in the car when they struck it. It would appear that the front wheels of the auto were on the track and that the auto was whirled around as it was thrown clear of the track.

The funeral was held at the Christian church Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock, Rev. A. A. Ford, pastor, having charge of the obsequies, being assisted therein by Rev. John Owen Gross, of the Methodist Episcopal church. Members of the choir were joined by choristers from other churches and by the Union College Quartette. Masses of flowers were in evidence, silent testimony of the love and affection in which Mrs. Tinsley was held.

At the grave there was but a short committal prayer as the remains were lowered to their last resting place.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. G. H. Albright, Dr. John G. Tye, Dr. F. R. Hurton, Dan H. Herndon, G. W. Tye, Alex. C. Vaughn.

Active pallbearers were C. H. Gibson, G. L. Dickinson, Geo. F. Tinsley, Chas. D. Cole, C. F. Rathfon and Thos. D. Tinsley.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mrs. Arthur Hurst, Mrs. Ed Hurst, and Mrs. Otto Brown, from Middlesboro; Mrs. Ben Matthews, Knoxville; Mrs. Betty Archer, Baughman; Mrs. C. E. Hall, Mrs. B. M. Baker, and Mrs. Kenes Bowling, of Harlan; Mrs. Maud Tinsley Dysard, Ashland; Mrs. James A. Stephens, Indianapolis; Mrs. C. D. Salvers, Louisville; Miss Lyda Helton, Berea; Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Cole, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. D. Cole, of Harlan; Mrs. W. T. Chappelle, and Mrs. Grover Latham, Corbin; Hon. Charles Finley and E. E. Nelson, of Williamsburg.

A pile of telegrams poured in on Mr. Tinsley following the publication of the accident, all expressing sympathy, which is also felt by each of her many friends.

Ada J. Tinsley was born June 20, 1866, and died November 12, 1922, being 56 years, 4 months and 22 days old. She was united in matrimony with John M. Tinsley on September 13, 1882. She was born in Barbourville and lived here all her life.

Mrs. Tinsley was a woman of deep religious conviction and those who loved her best have that abiding peace which comes with the knowledge that all is well with their beloved dead.

TOO MANY CHURCHES?

We are often told by those who attend churches and by those who do not that there are too many churches. They are said to cost too much and people do not attend as they should.

The function of a church, as we understand it, is to not only prepare humanity for the next world, but to inculcate the principles of decency and right living into our lives. We have in Barbourville three full time ministers who work for the public good and several other ministers thruout the county whose work is either unpaid, or whose pay is so small as to be negligible. These men teach the ethics embraced in the Ten Commandments, which really mean one's duty toward God and to one's neighbor. They hold up also the life of Christ for men to see and follow. In other words, they teach the beauty of human law and the gospel. No small job, we must admit.

Against them are set the criminal courts which do their duty, honestly in the sight of God and man.

Against them are set the criminal element, the men who protect the criminals by lies, sophistry or double dealing, some of whom cover themselves with the mantle of respectability which the church affords, and also, the indifferent or those who get their thrill from acts of crime—men facing both ways.

When one considers the forces of evil abroad in the land, the wickedness of criminals and so called christian men who, for filthy lucre, betray the Christ whom they profess to follow and the indifference of those who make of crime a mental movie picture show, and the enormous cost of fighting or protecting evil as against the trifling sum expended for church work, one is compelled to decide that it is not a question of there being too many, but too few churches.

The fact, too, that men remain as inherently decent as they do, is a proof that the upheld Cross is a greater force than the combined forces of evil even tho it is so numerically and financially weak in comparison.

God is still in his world with His Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

Good roads mean better schools.

MRS. JOHN M. TINSLEY

Funeral services for Mrs. John M. Tinsley, who passed away last Sunday afternoon, were held at the Christian Church Tuesday afternoon at 1:30.

Before an assembly of friends that filled the church and overflowed into the street, the pastor, Rev. A. A. Ford, and Rev. John Owen Gross, of the Methodist Church, paid beautiful tribute to the memory of one of the most beloved women of the city. During the service, which consisted of her favorite songs, beautifully rendered by the choir in which she had sung for many years, and passages of scripture and poems which she had selected for the occasion, the casket rested before the altar which was banked with ferns. The front of the church was filled with the floral offerings—beautiful tokens of the love and esteem in which she was held by her friends and the organizations of which she was a valued member.

Mrs. Tinsley was a member of the Christian Church for forty-three years and was for thirty-five years a teacher in the Sunday School. Referring to her love for the church, Rev. Ford said that, "Endowed with rare natural charm and graciousness of manner, there was about her another indefinable radiance that shone from a resplendent faith, and that bespoke a soul constantly bathed in the light of God's presence. Thus she moved in the work to which she so gladly gave herself. In joy and in sorrow, in the festive hour and in the hour when burdens were heavy, ever the renewer of spirits and dispenser of cheer, or the giver of consolation and comfort and healing, a veritable modern Doreas, indeed. To her service was a gladness opportunity, a golden outlet of the soul. And so she lived in the spirit of her Master, serving to the full. Ever drawing beauty and fragrance from the sunshine of the heavenly grace, her soul had blossomed into a loveliness and charm that were an unfailing source of blessing to all who knew her."

For forty years she was the devoted wife and helpmate of her husband who survives her. She leaves besides her husband and niece, Mrs. Charles D. Cole, of Harlan, a host of relatives and friends who have the sympathy of the entire community in this bereavement.

JARVIS-BLACK

Miss Sara Jarvis, of Bailey Switch, and Charles Black, son of J. H. Black, of Allison Avenue, were united in matrimony Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, by Rev. J. H. Blackburn at the home of Mr. J. E. Dozier on Allison Avenue.

Many good wishes of their friends are extended to the happy young people.

EPISCOPAL SERVICES

TRANSPORTATION SITUATION — EFFECT AND CAUSE.

The farmers, business men and other people are beginning to have a transportation experience, says the Railway Age, which should be as instructive to them as it is to be feared it will be expensive. The railways in the week ended September 16, the last week for which we have the figures, moved 945,919 carloads of freight. The largest business ever handled in any year was in 1920.
The number of carloads of freight moved for the week mentioned was only 3 1/2% less than the corresponding week of 1920, and only 6 per cent less than the largest number ever moved in any week.

"In spite of this the railroads reported for the week ended September 18, for the first time since 1920, a net shortage of cars. On April 8 1921, they had a surplus of 507,427 cars, and even six months ago a surplus of 267,000 cars. It has taken only this short time for the increase in business activity to wipe out the car surplus. The so-called car shortage is a symptom, not the disease.
The disease is the inadequacy of railway facilities of all kinds, and we have not yet felt its worst effects.

"There are wide-spread complaints in the west because the railroads cannot move the grain as fast as the farmers desire to ship it. Gov.
Kendall, of Iowa, issued a statement on September 1 in which he said:
'The car shortage in the state is a serious embarrassment to all industry and enterprise and it is one most difficult to remedy.' He stated that the elevators are overflowing everywhere and heavy losses will be sustained unless provision can be made for the immediate marketing of the grain. This condition exists in spite of the fact that thus far in 1922 the railways have moved more grain than ever before. The number of cars of grain moved this year to September 9 was 1,636,230. The previous high record was that of 1921 when up to the same date shipments of grain had been 1,571,538 cars.
The amount of coal transported weekly has increased over 125 per cent since the coal strike was settled, but the United States Geological Survey in its last report says:
'Transportation is the dominant and limiting factor in soft coal supply.'

One of the lumber manufacturers' associations in a circular letter calls attention to the fact that the production of lumber has for some time been exceeding the amount that could be shipped, and that finally lack of transportation was forcing a curtailment of production. The National Sand and Gravel Producers' Association has been before the Interstate Commerce Commission to secure modification of its priority orders in favor of coal because its orders are interfering with road building and other construction work.

"Governor Kendall in his statement said the shop employees' strike left the railways without adequate equipment. The shop employees' strike is by no means the principal cause of the present transportation situation. The principal cause is that the general development of the railroads has very greatly declined within recent years while the other industries of the country have continued to expand at a normal or more than normal rate. Consider the following figures. The number of locomotives in service increased 17,725 in seven years ending with 1907, only 10,579 in the next seven years, and only 1,912 in the seven years ending with 1921. The number of freight cars in service increased 626,000 in the seven years ending with 1907, only 349,000 in the seven years ending with 1914, and only 41,000 in the seven years ending with 1921. The increase in the number of locomotives in the seven years ending with 1907 was more than nine times as great as in the last seven years, and the increase in the number of freight cars was over fifteen times as great. There was a corresponding reduction of the increase in all railway facilities.

"When the restrictive policy of government regulation began to be applied about fifteen years ago those who opposed it predicted that this very reduction of railway expansion would be the result. The predictions have come true.

"What is to be done, if anything, to remedy this situation? The natural way to stop an effect is to remove its cause. Since restrictive legislation has arrested the development of the railroads, it would seem that the logical thing to do would be to make regulation less restrictive.

"In a large part of the country, however, there is being carried on a powerful agitation for legislation which would repeal all the constructive provisions of the Transportation Act and make the government's policy of regulation worse than it was before government control was ever adopted.

"The present transportation situation and the still worse situation which seems to be coming, are due to a policy the adoption of which has been caused by the very people who are now complaining most concerning the lack of transportation.
Perhaps experience will teach the public that it has much to lose and nothing to gain by supporting a policy, the direct and necessary effect of which is to render the railways unable to handle the country's commerce." —Railway Age.

Another Toledo Woman Highly Prizes It

"Since taking Tanlac I have greater strength and endurance than I ever dreamed of possessing," says Mrs. Pearl Libert, 722 Stickney Ave.
Toledo, Ohio, a well known and popular demonstrator.

"For several weeks I just seemed to be right on the verge of nervous prostration. It was almost useless for me to retire at night or to go to the table at meal time, as I could neither sleep or eat to do much good I was subject to bursting headaches with awful dizzy spells, and my strength got so near the breaking point it was all I could do to remain at my post all day.

"But it has taken Tanlac only a short time to correct my troubles and make me feel like a new woman.
I have gained eight pounds and am still gaining. Nothing makes me nervous any more, and I can stand on my feet all day and still feel fine when night comes. Money couldn't buy the good Tanlac has done me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

SMART ENGLISH TOPCOAT

Very English and very capable is this smart fall overcoat model. It is made of a novelty woolen, plaid-buck fabric and has a graceful, convertible collar, roomy sleeves and capacious pockets. Two large buttons on the

Pretty Home Gifts

Anyone who knows how to handle a paint brush and oil colors or understands the new art of painting with colored sealing wax can make the book for telephone numbers pictured here. It is merely a piece of black oilcloth folded over leaves of white paper. Small holes punched through at each end allow a black silk cord to blat the book and provide for hanging it up at the same time.

A powder box and a rouge box shown below it are covered with black lacquer and decorated with colored sealing wax that simulates ribbon and flowers.

Handy Gifts for Men

Every man, young or old, will appreciate a good-looking rack to place within easy reach of his dressing case. The tie rack requires an oblong or oval board, smoothly covered with cretonne and a small nickel towel rack, which is screwed to the front of it. It is suspended by a silk cord fastened at the back with screw eyes.

Ever Welcome Gifts

If a Christmas were to come and go without leaving with us pin-cushions, pin-holders, garters and other pretty trinkets made of ribbon, it would be remembered with something of disappointment. A heart-shaped pin-cushion, a small bag for holding pins and a pair of ribbon-covered garters represent a few of many ribbon novelties for the holidays.

Hand-Made Toys

Here are two of many animals that are due to arrive on Christmas morning. A black kitty that will stand any amount of hard usage is very easy to make, requiring only a pair of silk stocking tops that have survived the worn-out feet. Cut off the worn feet and trim out the ankles in a curved line to form the ears.
Sew a seam along this line, turn right side out and stuff with cotton to form the body. Wind the remainder of the tops with small cord to form the tail and tie a gay bow of ribbon at the end. Two white bone buttons make the eyes and heavy silk floss the mouth and whiskers and Miss Kitty is dressed up with a bow at the neck.
The elephant is made of gray duvety, plush or capton flannel and cut by a paper pattern. His eyes are shoe buttons, his tusks white cloth.

Inactive Liver

"I have had trouble with an inactive liver," wrote Mrs. S. Nichols, of 4412 Speacer St., Houston, Texas. "When I would get constipated, I would feel a light, dizzy feeling in my head. To get up in the morning with a lightness in the head and a tremble feeling is often a sign that the stomach is out of order. For this I took Thedford's Black-Draught, and without a doubt can say I have never found its equal in any liver medicine. It not only cleans the liver, but leaves you in such a good condition. I have used it a long time, when food does not seem to set well, or the stomach is a little sour."

DAMM FAMILY MAKES GOOD

The Damm family has lived in Makaska County, Iowa, for about four years. There are fourteen Damms, the parents and twelve children. People of the state clearly remember how widely this family of Damms was advertised when it landed in Iowa, fresh from Holland. They were poor folks and had just enough money to get them across the sea to the land of plenty, says the Cedar Rapids Gazette. Arriving in Oskaloosa after a direct trip from Holland, the Damms began to look for a farm to rent. They settled in Richmond township, Mahaska county.

Last week they bought the farm. It comprises about 400 acres, and they paid $60,000 for it. Four years ago they didn't have $80 among them today they are worth 1,000 times that humble amount.

The Damms are rich because of their own efforts, theirs alone. No one helped them. They applied Dutch industry to a rented farm and now they own the farm.

There's no need of bolshevism in this country as long as the poor immigrants can do what the Damms did, and there is no place for the Bolshevik or the red flag. The Damms furnish telling evidence against the creed of those who say they do not get "a square deal".

THE PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE

During the past three months, the Knox County Public Health League has been conducting a very thorough health crusade. The efficient nurse, Miss Edna Reinstedler has been going incessantly since her appointment here. She has visited a large number of schools of this county, examined all of the pupils in the schools that she visited, looked after the water they are drinking to see if it is pure. She has made a large number of bed side calls and has been of great service to the families who have had children sick with scarlet fever or diphtheria. Since the county league is affiliated with the state organization, a much better opportunity is offered for it to serve. The State Board prints and distributes through the nurse literature on all important health topics. They also bear a large part of the expense of the maintenance of the local board.

The only asking to be made by the public for a direct contribution to the health league work will be during next week. Each individual is to be asked for the sum of $1. membership fee for the year. Of this amount 100 cents remain here in the county to carry on the started work. There must be not less than 500 memberships to guarantee a future for the work. Join next week and wear the white tag.

Now it is the beginning of a new serial, then it is a contribution of vital interest to the youth interested in sport or science, next is a brand-new story by C. A. Stephens or A. S. Pier, or a tale of wild adventure in the old Indian days, by men who have actually lived among and powdered with the Redskins. But why say more? No other Christmas gift is welcomed with so much pleasure. Try it and see.

CHINESE MINISTER AS CUPID

Jeering Remark Made by Wu Ting Fang Led to the Union of Two Loving Hearts.

Wu Ting Fang was, while minister at Washington, attending the wedding of the daughter of the chief justice at that time. At the breakfast he asked one of the bridesmaids when it would be her turn to become a bride. She modestly said that she did not know, as she had not yet had an offer. Turning to a group of young men, Doctor Wu jocularly remarked to one of them, "This is a beautiful lady, would you not like to marry her?" He replied, "I should be most delighted to." "Will you accept his offer?" said Doctor Wu to the bridesmaid. She seemed slightly embarrassed and said something to the effect that as she did not know the gentleman she could not give a definite answer. Meeting the Chinese minister at an "at home" a few days later, she scolded him for his bluntness, and he excused himself by saying that he was actuated by the best of motives.

A few months afterward Wu received an invitation from the young lady's parents to attend her marriage. The bridegroom was the young man who had figured in the unconventional incident. To Wu's agreeable surprise the mother of the bride informed him that it was he who had first brought the young couple together, and both bride and bridegroom heartily thanked him for his good offices.

EXCITED WRATH OF DICKENS

Great Writer, at His Death, Denounced Public Hangings, Which Were Decried to English Law.

Charles Dickens, at the time of the execution of Manning and his wife for the murder of Patrick O'Connor, was at his fullest power as a writer. In a letter to the London Times he wrote: "I believe that a sight so inconceivably awful as the wickedness and levity of the immense crowd collected at the execution this morning could be hatched by no man, and presented by no heathen land under the sun. The horrors of the gibbet and the crime which brought the wretched murderers to it faded in my mind before the atrocious bearing, looks and language of the assembled spectators. When I came upon the scene at midnight the shrillness of the cries and howls that were raised from time to time, denoting that they came from a concourse of boys and girls already assembled in the best places, made my blood run cold. When the two miserable creatures who attracted all this ghastly sight about them were turned quivering into the air, there was no more emotion, no more pity, no more thought that two immortal souls had gone to judgment, no more restraint in any of the previous obscenities, than if the name of Christ had never been heard in this world, and there was no belief among men but that they perish like the beasts."

Lao-tze Wrote Gospel of Taoism.

Lao-tze wrote the gospel of Taoism, from whose pages an immense religion grew up. Having been librarian of a Chinese king, and having much time for meditation, he came after many years to the conclusion that humility was the supreme virtue. He resigned, and desired to hide in seclusion. While passing through the gate of the palace on his way to solitude the warder besought him: "You are about to withdraw yourself from the world. I pray you write me a book before you go."

Lao-tze thereupon sat down and wrote a book about half the size of St. Mark's gospel. He gave this to the warder, passed through the gate and no man knows where he died. The little book is the gospel of Taoism. The word "Tao" means way—man of destiny. The advice was that men should become like little children and act without reflection.

In Doubt.

One of our good housekeepers knows she has no ear for music, but when she is hustling around her pots and pans and scrubbing and washing out tea towels she cannot restrain humming a bit just out of her cleaning-up joy. Now there is also a little neighbor boy who plays under her window. Once while the process of scrubbing was going on above the little fellow looked up at the window with a face all puckered and serious, as if some question had been troubling him for quite a while.

"Well, Tommy, what's the matter?" inquired the housekeeper.

A long pause—then, "Please, ma'am is you singing?"—Exchange.

Self-Starting Engine.

Automatic starting of an engine surprised the driver and fireman of a train at Beauvais, in France. The two men in charge were standing by their detached steam engine, when it suddenly started off, leaving them at the station. The engine, being short of steam, ran only six miles, to Heracles Junction, where it pulled up and awaited the arrival of its crew.

Grateful Son.

"My boy," said the millionaire lecturing his son on the importance of economy, "when I was your age I carried water for a gang of brick-layers."

"I'm proud of you, father," answered his offspring; "if it hadn't been for your pluck and perseverance I might have had to do something of that sort myself."—Irish World.

SEEING POWER OF INSECTS

Interesting Data Collected in Connection With Studies in Comparison With the Human Eye.

Very curious data have been collected in regard to the seeing powers of insects. The human eye in perfect condition is able to see objects separately that are only one minute of arc apart. Put two objects, as, for instance, two black circles, on a white ground just one inch apart and then place them at a distance of about 280 1/2 feet. As seen with the naked eye the apparent space between the circles will be a minute of arc. This space is plainly the limit of detail visible to the unaided human eye.

Now it might be supposed that an insect, having a compound eye, would be able to see more detail than we do; in other words, could separate small objects closer together. As a matter of fact, owing to the small aperture of the lenses composing the facets of the eye, and the spacing between the facets, insects see less detail than we do.

It has been calculated that a dragonfly cannot see separately two objects that are placed less than one degree apart. In other words, to such an insect two silver coins lying on a table three inches apart, and viewed from a distance exceeding 14 1/2 feet, would appear as a single object.

Bees and flies, according to the same investigator, are still more limited in their ability to see the details of objects presented to their eyes. A fly could see the two silver coins above described separately only at a distance not exceeding about seven feet.

It has been remarked as a consequence of this that we can see the details on the antennae of a fly at a distance of two feet or more better than the fly itself can, though they are but the fraction of an inch from its eyes. —Washington Star.

CURED MONARCH OF AVARICE

Power of Turning Everything He Touched Into Gold Quickly Palled on King Midas.

It was because King Midas helped a drunken companion of Bacchus to sober up that he received the power of turning everything into gold at his touch. Bacchus had offered to grant Midas anything he asked, and the king wished this unpleasant power upon himself, according to Ovid.

Midas enjoyed himself immensely at first, turning twigs, apples, stones and clods of earth into gold. But the trouble began as soon as he sat down to eat. The bread he touched turned to gold and defied his teeth. The wine flowed down his throat as liquid gold.

According to an embellished version of the myth, the crowning misfortune wrought by Midas' curse in blessing's guise was when, in the act of caressing his little daughter, he turned the child into a golden statue.

Bacchus had been aware that the gift was anything but desirable. So, believing Midas cured of avarice, he sent the king to wash away the power in the fountainhead of the River Pactolus. As a result of his bath, the sands of that river remain golden to this day.

Peculiar Deep-Sea Fish.

The Aristeus, a deep-sea prawn, has a method of lighting that gives the appearance of a multitude of smoke rings. When excited by the nearness of an enemy, the prawn ejects respiratory water in tiny squirts and into this stream the luciferin is forced from countless glands opening into the stream by fine ducts. As the chemicals combine, puffy clouds of luminescent particles float in the sea. This is the "smoke screen" provided by nature.

The species of luminous fish, called "Photoblephron," has a dimmer system in an inside chamber and burns continuously. When the fish wishes to shut off the light, he causes a black pigmented curtain to slide down over the light cell's opening like an eyelid. The light organ preserves its luminescence even when removed and is used by fishermen of the Islands of Banda, about 800 miles southeast of the Philippines, as bait for night fishing.

The Singer and the Song.

A song is a great adventure. Thousands write it, tens succeed; and when they have succeeded, its fate still lies entirely with the singer. No one ever had it so much in his power to make the worse appear the better cause, or to refrain from so doing. The ancients placed Thamyris and Narada among the gods; the moderns pay their counterparts royalties. But the singer's personality is still incalculable in terms of ennoblement or of ensh. That personality means all that he has been able to crowd into his life; and he may still enlarge it. A good way to do that is to read all the poetry that he does not sing, and to listen to all the music written for some other instrument than the voice.—A. H. Fox Strangways.

It Sometimes Happens.

When a man won't make love to a pretty girl he is either sick, sleepy or sore.

Most girls are clever prestidigitators: they can make a man's $20 bill disappear the moment the waiter presents the check.

Some men take years to learn that all you can get from a woman is just exactly what she wants to give—and that you must accept that much.—New York Sun.

Marine Glue.

Marine glue is prepared by dissolving one part of India rubber in crude benzine and mixing with two parts of shellac, by the aid of heat. The waterproof character of this cement in connection with its elastic flexibility makes it a useful substance in many applications to house construction and to furniture. This glue is applied with ease when warm, and cools with promptness. It was originally intended to be used chiefly on board ship and is well known in Europe.
